A small but mighty team today with the added bonus of petrol power!!

For the last couple of years, we've trimmed the cemetery hedges using only hand tools and lots of elbow grease - and it was hard work. So this year the Parish Council asked their gardener Mark James Munro to help us out by strimming them back using his power tools while we gathered all the green waste for composting.

The tops were also cut back, something we've not been able to do before - what a huge difference. We will be back in two weeks to do the other hedge.

Thank you everyone
